DRAWINGS

1. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the "... a wrist wearable form" called for in claim 17 must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

CLAIMS

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Goyal et al. (US 6751473).

Regarding claim 1, Goyal shows:

A device carrying a first part (3) having a first user interface (7) and a second part (4) having a second user interface (10);

A closed configuration and an open configuration (i.e. figs. 8, 7);

A connecting element (17, 30-32) about a first axis of rotation (top 17) and a second axis of rotation (bottom 17);

The first part (3) and the second part (4) rotate about the first axis of rotation and move about the second axis of rotation.

Regarding claims 2-16, Goyal shows:

The first part (3) is able to move both translationally and rotationally with respect to the second part (4) (see figs. 7-8);

Art Unit: 2642

One rotational axis is able to move about the other rotational axis (17, 17);

The first interface is a display (7);

The second interface is a keypad (10);

The interfaces (7, 10) are able to move to a optimum configuration (i.e. fig. 7) in which they both are visible at the same time;

At least one pair of connecting elements (30-32, figs. 5-6);

First straight portion connected to a second straight portion at an elbow region (see 33 in fig. 6);

Connecting points (23, 80 in figs 5-6);

The connecting elements (30-32) are on a common side of the parts (3, 4);

The different amount of separation for the connecting points (i.e. see the four locations of 80 in fig. 6);

A first pair of connecting elements (30-32, 33 connected to left 17);

A second pair of connecting elements (30-32, 33 connected to right 17);

The distances between the connecting points are different (see 80);

Difference in length of the connecting parts (30-32, or 63-69);

The closed and open configuration and the substantially parallel movement (from figs. 8-9 to figs. 5 and 7); and

A phone (1).

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2642

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 17 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goyal et al. in view of Fernandez-Martinez (US 6408072).

Regarding claim 17, Goyal shows a portable device (1).

Goyal differs from the claimed invention in that it does not show the device in a wrist wearable form.

However, it is common to see that electronic device is worn on a user's wrist, this is shown by Fernandez-Martinez (fig. 1).

Hence, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Goyal with a wrist mounting electronic device as taught by Fernandez-Martinez, because it is understood that Goyal's portable device is meant to be carried by the user, and the modification is an option taught by Fernandez-Martinez to provide a simple and comfortable use of the device, and yet to maintain the portability of the device (col. 2, lines 23-25 in Fernandez-Martinez).
